Churchill Opposes BurmaBill

SECOND READING

London, Nov. 5 .- The Prime Minister, Mr Attlee, in .the Commons today moved the second reading of the Burma Independence Bill, which will make Burma an independent Republic by January 4, 1948.

"The departure from the British family of nations of one of its members must be an occasion for deep regret," Mr Attlee said.

He explained that the purpose of the bill was "to give effect to the will of the peoples of Burma, as expressed by their elected representatives, that their country should become independent."

"Burma will cease to be part of l the British Commonwealth and will the British Commonwealth and will no longer form part of the King's Dominions. . . henceforward relations between Burma and Britain will be based on a treaty of friendship, which I am glad to say is today stronger than ever,"

He told the House it had been hoped by the British Government that Burma would recognise the advantages according from Commonwealth membership, "but they have decided otherwise and, in our view, all countries have the right to decide on the nature of their own government."

New Traffic Control

THE announcement that within A a few weeks traffle at the junction of Pedder Street and Des Vocux Road is to be regulated by what is called the "three-phase" system of control marks the first important step towards imple. mentation of a plan to-modernise and rationalise traffic control within the city areas. As such, the innovation will be regarded 'cautiously, for it has to be demonstrated whether part of the whole can be successful in practice. Theoretically, the new system of regulation at the Pedder Street-Des Voeux Road Junction should chable more rapid movement and greater safety for both vehicular and pedestrian traffic, but for the time being this type of control will operate independently of methods prevailing elsewhere within the city. Wherefore the theoretical counsel of perfection may have to give way to practical disabilities created by a conflict of control systems. The biggest handleau confronting those who would untangle our traffic mess is that the two main streets converge a few yards east of the city's centre, and the danger is that unless the "three-phase" system of control is simultaneously employed at the bottom of Garden Road to synchronise with the Des Vocux Road signals, double congestion may result. The test of the efficacy of the "three-plase" system will be during the morning and early evening rush hours when it is necessary to keep all traffic as much on the move as possible. The suspension of traffic travelling in one direction for vehicles going the opposite way. and additionally the stopping of this traffic in both directions to give way to cross traffic hardly apneals as a speeding up of movement. It is conceivable that until the Traffic Department puls into effect its complete scheme for renow occur in Queen's Road be-Des Vocux Road. Furthermore. the control of traffic into Pedder Street under the "three-phase" system does nothing to alleviate the situation at the junction of Pedder Street and Queen's Road Central, where cars and buses are directed according to the whim of the point duty policeman, and the pedestrian looks after himself. The Des Voeux Road control may operate successfully as an independent system, and it is to be hoped it can; but the feeling persists that the authorities would have been better advised to have introduced its city traffic control plan in complete form, rather than plecemeal.

Violation Peace Treaties Satellites

Ouestion To U.N.

London, Nov. 5.—Britain is considering referring to the United Nations the question of violation of conditions of the peace treaties by Soviet Satellite countries, the Lord Chancellor, Lord Jowitt, told the House of Lords today.

Replying to a debate initiated by Lord Vansittart, former chief diplomatic adviser to the British Government, who deplored the fate of the opposition leaders in Eastern Europe, Lord Jowitt said that Britain would obviously have to bring the matter before the United Nations soon but "I want to be perfectly certain that I have the best case on which to take it."

He said that he did not favour renouncing the treaties because the Government believed it desirable to maintain diplomatic representation in those countries.

EXODUS HYDERABAID

Hyderabad, Decan, Nov. 5.—More than 100,000 Indus have left Hyderabad state since October 27, according to estimates made to-

The exodus followed the demonstration on October 27 by a large gathering of Moslems, who met in front of the Premier's house and demanded that Hyderabad should not join the Dominion of India.

The fire brigade was called out last night in Hyderabad city to deal with an outbreak of fire in two houses in the area which had been the scene of some communal incidents in the last three days.

Representatives of the Hyderabad Government have been discussing future relations with the Indian Union since August 15.

Sir Walter Monckton, constitutional adviser to the Nizam, was a member of the original negotiating committee. He left for Britain on October 30.

A second committee was appointed last week to continue the discussions. Three of its members represented the powerful Moslem organisation Majlis Ittehadul Moslemín, which has been opposed to union with India.-Reuter.

Exciting Football

Everton, Nov. 5.—England and Ireland shared four goals in the soccer international here today, after a most thrilling finish, in which, England, one goal down, led by 2-1, and then Ireland with an almost last move of the match equalised.

With less than ten minutes to go, Ireland were in front with a goal from D. Walsh and critics were beginning to refer to records, which showed that Ireland had not beaten England in England for 33 years. Indeed, the last win was in Belfast

20 years ago. But after Mannion had equalised, England, went in front with Lawton's goal following a grand run by Matthews up the right wing, and when many of the 55,000 crowd were pre-

Doherty inspired many more moves for the Irishmen, while England seemed unable to do anything against the keen tackling. Lawton rarely received a pass which he could turn to account, and even when England had a penalty 20 minutes from the end, Hinton, as though inspired, brought off a
